Debbie is a body of curiosity and vitality.

To evolve those qualities, her life has been a pathway of consistent learning, development and personal challenge.

She drew upon knowledge from both a Masters of Applied Linguistics and a Masters of Online Education, along with professional qualifications such as Certified Master for 'The Leadership Challenge', Prosci® Change Practitioner and the ORSC systems coaching accreditation. Her professional passion is the corporate business world, along with the opportunity 'disconnected leaders and businesses' present to her. Measured corporate and leader outcomes soar to new heights as results of her inputs and initiatives. Her personal passion is physical challenge in the great outdoors, such as sea caving in Cyprus, trekking Mont Blanc, sledding across the Arctic region and pushing herself on various via-ferrata mechanisms to scale cliff faces in Oman.

DEBBIE NICOL
Certified Master for
'The Leadership Challenge'

Chris is one of only three European-based Kouzes & Posner Certified Masters. He is also an accredited CPP practitioner and coach. Described by Tom Peters (within whose organisation he was a European partner) as a 'Positive Deviant', he is Quest's co-founder and agent provocateur.

Chris's positive deviancy, coupled with an ability to build relationships, retain a strategic perspective and a strong bias for accountable action, means his clients see him as a key influence on their future business success. Such clients include: Aim Altitude, Rolls-Royce Aerospace, The Applera Corporation, Hitachi Capital (UK), Leica Geosystems, Analog Devices Inc, Cybex Fitness Systems, Gripple Ltd, LSG SkyChefs, The Active Change Foundation, Texas Instruments and John Wiley & Sons.

In 1985 he entered The Royal Military Academy Sandhurst. After commissioning, and a rather energetic interlude at The Commando Training Centre Lympstone, he saw active service in several regions of the world.
